Day in the Bay

Holyrood, NL

IN-WATER PRODUCT DEMONSTRATIONS

Want to use and experience our 12,000 year old test tank?

12,000 years ago, the distinctive, horseshoe - shaped Holyrood Harbour was formed when a deep, freshwater fjord communed with the old, briny, North Atlantic Ocean.

Today the Town of Holyrood is building on our rich history and heritage and boldly moving into the future by fostering a progressive, Community of Practice for Cold Oceans Research and Technology.

The Town of Holyrood located just a short drive from St. John's is an integral part of advancing Cold Oceans Research and Technology in Newfoundland and Labrador for the international ocean technology community. The Day in the Bay hosted by the Oceans Holyrood Initiative - Town of Holyrood in partnership with the Marine Institute will feature in-water product demonstrations from national and international multi-discipline companies and organizations. In addition to the live demonstrations the Town of Holyrood will host a network reception and activities.

Leading up to OCEANS '14, we have an exciting offer for you!!

So Come Ashore and add us to your pre-conference agenda for a relaxing day of live demonstrations and fun activities.
